COVER LETTER

Dear BBC Hiring Team,

From the very beginning of my education I have always had a fascination with Broadcast technology.

Up until university, my key focus throughout college had been system administration; I studied networks, server security and maintainence of these systems. I wanted to branch out into AV technology and learn more about the systems that are at the core of AV production, so I decided to study Music & Sound Design and graduated in 2025 with a 2:1.

During my time at university, I mastered studio routing between their Dante based studios, and setting up microphones and cameras to record performances from within the control room.

Since university, I have been working my way through Audinate's Dante certifications, and developing my knowledge of Dante IP transmission systems. I am looking forward to completing more certifications to further my understanding of these systems.

This would be a brilliant opportunity for me to apply the knowledge that I've learned over the past 6 years of education within a hands-on production environment.

Sincerely,

Arron Ware
